Initially, it was programmed to fight against the robots of a neighboring planet and not against humans. But when its life was interrupted by a virus and it became a virus, it suddenly became the vicious creature, having every intention to destroy everything that separates it from its goal. The master of cyber is called Cybermaster, a robot with the DNA (more often erroneously called the mind of the robot) of all three types. The human brain of the robot is useless, it is only used for controlling the three types. Early Access Game Get instant access and start playing; get involved with this game as it develops. The experiments reported here show that a functional microtubule-based motor, kinesin, is required for the rapid transport of Golgi-derived transport vesicles along microtubules. Using indirect immunofluorescence microscopy, we found that microtubules in interphase and prophase Swiss 3T3 cells, as well as mitotic Swiss 3T3 cells, contain an endogenous or epitope-tagged kinesin. The latter immunoreactivity is present in an apico-plasmic microtubule organizing center that coincides with the Golgi apparatus, and also with peripheral distribution in mitotic cells. Depolymerization of the microtubule network by nocodazole treatment at a non-permissive temperature blocks the transport of Golgi-derived transport vesicles, as assessed by immunofluorescence microscopy for endogenous golgin levels, transport of wheat-germ agglutinin and beta-COP, and the localization of epitope-tagged kinesin.
