Gina and Jessica are best friends. They love to paint and they often paint beautiful pictures. It's the last time they were so happy. But one day, something horrible happened to Jessica. She hasn't been heard from since. Something, something is watching them. That's right, something is watching them. Creepy Girls is an eerie point and click adventure game about exploring creepy places. Solve brain-cracking puzzles and face terrifying encounters. You play as Gina. Experience what happened to Jessica and find out what happened to her. Features Creepy Girls: - Creepy story and detailed atmosphere - Deep, rich gameplay - Save the girl trapped in the magical house by solving puzzles and fighting your way through enemies - No time limits and no walking puzzles - Defeat horrific encounters with firearms or magical attacks - A dark story that makes you scream Written by Imad Housni (4jD)

Art by Julien Derouane Music by Imad Housni You can download Creepy Girls: Desktop/Mac: Android: Murder is not an option in this psychological thriller. The pain and torture you're about to experience is all part of Dr. David Summerhouse's experiment, and he'll stop at nothing to get it right. Thinking about going into the city? Let us warn you: it's not a pretty place. People suck, the police are corrupt, businesses are out to exploit you, and you'll feel like you're just another number walking a short life of pain and despair. But, even though the city's a living hell, it's home to one man that doesn't hesitate to take on the odds: a former soldier who just so happens to have been the victim of a hideous and traumatic crime. Something's on the loose in the city… and it's only a matter of time before it's attached to you. There's no turning back now. The city is never, ever safe. Inspired by the

This is a game about scammers. I invented this game. I was running around angry one day, and was constantly being scammed. I decided to create this game to make sure they could not scam me anymore. Scam the scammers, scam them by scamming them. So, let me stop playing this game and explain to you some simple facts: 1. It was probably me. 2. I only remember stuff from one day. 3. I can not remember anything. 4. I am probably just dreaming. 5. I have not seen game or anything like this before. 6. I have no idea what the story is. 7. I just want this game to stop. 8. I am going to stop playing this game. 9. I would stop but my friends said I can't. 10. I wish everyone would just stop. So, yeah. Please stop playing this game. You should definitely play the game, it's excellent. Thank you for stopping by, and thanks for supporting my earlier works!/*

Official Description Whateverland: Prologue is the first of three episodes from Bloober Team's indie-platformer title Whateverland. In the first episode, Niffie is faced with the choice of buying food or entering an arcade. He chooses the latter, but the journey there isn't straightforward.In what is considered to be a one-off scenario in Whateverland, Niffie arrives at the arcade only to find that his virtual self has taken control of the machine in order to play "The Screaminator." The Screaminator is the most dangerous videogame ever created, whose sole purpose is to make everyone who enters it want to play more.The arcade game ends with a message from its creator, Tod Falsig, encouraging Niffie to "Die like a man." When I type 127.0.0.1:3000 I get this no such file to load -- actionpack/lib/action_dispatch/routing/polymorphic_routes Extracted source (around line #3): def self.default_routes ^ /usr/lib/ruby/gems/1.9.1/gems/actionpack-3.2.0/lib/action_dispatch/routing/polymorphic_routes.rb:1:in `require' How do I connect to the localhost? I tried googling, I did not find anything. A: You need to add another index.html to your public directory, which you'll create: mkdir public cd public touch index.html Then you'll edit index.html, inserting your application code. This is where you're going to deploy your app. Then you'll need to restart your server. To do this, you'll need to know the IP and port of your server. You

! Jun 25, 2020 And so we're back. We're back to regular life. We're back to working on more projects. From practical wearables to personal zines. The rough idea for what we're working on is accumulating a little photobooth around here. In addition to being operational, most commonly in the bedroom before bed, it would offer more functionality, such as the zine, maybe a streaming service for work projects, or a more user-friendly security system. In addition to that we'll keep working on some tools for our projects. We're working on a prototyping software and we'll write about it soon. Same for sites. We'll give updates and fixes for our broken sites. Jun 22, 2020 For those who are still celebrating the 5th of June, here's a short video from me as I recapped the 5th of June and what we're doing. I hope you enjoy it. It's the 5th of June, which means we're once again at a stalemate. We're going full throttle at what we do, from creating content to working on our branding. To be honest we're also doing our usual turns around artwork and music, as we've been doing since day one. For people from outside the US there was a long period of time where we weren't releasing anything or keeping our press or marketing cool. It was an okay time, but we felt we could turn things around. Now, we're turning the tables and celebrating the World's Independence day. We're making videos and doing live streams as often as we can, we also have a number of updates in our pipeline. And as you can see with this conversation, so far we have a lot of ideas. It makes us excited. June 5, 2020 We're in a situation now where we can barely speak. And so we're writing here instead of posting other content. We still understand what we do, and we're more than proud of the work we put into it. It was our wish to show our love of friendship to the greater digital and technology community. This is an example of the dedication and passion that we put into it. June 4, 2020 T
