This is a special Digital Deluxe Version of My Octopath Traveler with a painting by my friend Surun, and a documentaire produced by our Director Shosailo Christopher Marchetti. Viniar was an old, powerfully built woman, with short wavy white hair and small, intense eyes. Her lush full lips smiled at the surrounding people. Her face was usually somber, but she would light up when she was in the company of a young child or man. The woman took an immediate liking to young Volk, and treated the child like a son, often cooking food for him and even teaching him how to prepare it. When Volk awoke each morning, Viniar sat next to his bedside, ready to listen to his daily requests. She often tutored him in things that he needed to know about his "seedship", and even allowed him to join in with the children in her household, to help them memorize their lessons.

Zorndorf, Germany, 1758: French General Tallard has deployed his army along the road to Prague to reinforce his troops besieging Vienna. French Marshal Maurice de Saxe advances with his Imperial allies, Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and Russian troops from the far east. Marching along the river Alzei, he rendezvous with his Austrian allies. They had crossed the river and laid siege to Prague. Saxe-Coburg-Gotha-Ryssland have gained control of the fortress. The Duke of Schwerin, commander of Silesian troops, marches from the east. A French detachment arrived at Kromwyl and make a surprise attack on the baggage train. Thus, Silesian troops can march unimpeded. The Silesian forces attack the French near the city of Zduńska Wola. They unexpectedly found the French outposts empty. The warlord of this area has already been defeated by the Silesians. The French transport your horses to the French fortifications. The french mobile reserves force the enemy to march towards the town of Belsen. The fast infantry can now exploit the gap in the Silesian defense. The Hungarian army arrives near Kromwyl and rallies forces. The garrison commander has ordered his troops to retreat. A French cavalry brigade makes a landing along the river Alzei and can attack the Silesians at their camp. The Silesian cavalry have no chance to stem this strike. Tallard orders a double march on Kromwyl, to support the Silesians and trap the Hungarian forces between the two forces. A second column of 60 c9d1549cdd Angry black guy is smacked to the floor and thud gets up on the floor so he can check out the situation going on. With bad guys running around and his buddy gorilla looking like he wants to save the black guy but had better not try too hard to fight the psycho! A confrontation of two crazed raider types has broken out in the warehouse. Watch out as they are angry and a move is made for the big martial man. Should be interesting, could even get violent. Guess what the scrap is for! It's the smaller of a couple small rooms. Not too much exciting going on in this room. They will probably need to fight each other to avoid someone getting hurt. The fight/scraps looks intense but the small kids left the scene and ran off! One idea this means was that one of these two fought the kids and he later kicked his buddies ass for not protecting him! Gotta go with that one. Wingsue split off again. Finally some movement in this room. A halfling or other young (adult) person has been captured. They will be questioned for the whereabouts of the younger (horsie) one. Whatever they say will be suspect, if they tell them the truth they are long gone and will likely get killed. Kids in the room! This will be just a quick discussion but they wonder about the older horses and how this is going to end. Sounds like they are trapped in the room. This will test their wits to the fullest if they are smart enough to get out of here. There was some kind of bar fight going on in the room with the older (horses) of the other room just a little bit earlier. A couple people were unconscious and they got dragged into this room. Hopefully they are OK. Oh no, they got into a fight in
