In the world of Altai there is no winter. In this world there are two moons, and two suns, and the wilds are so cold that I would not wish to go there. However, a plane crash has changed that. I was on that ill-fated flight. Along with me were three others. Only two survived. We are here in this snowdrift, and we must find a way to survive. It can be said that I am not a very good typist, but your story is I am not a very good typist, but your story is my last story, and this is what I have to make your last. A: Only found this because the game wasn't released yet: Ucsary 3d A 3D retro action game for PC, Android, iOS, with a touch of strategy and adventure. The main protagonist is a young woman, in a post-apocalyptic environment. Q: Number of forms in a basis over  $\mathbb{Q}$ ? Let  $S$  be the set of all non-singular forms  $f(x,y)$  in  $\mathbb{R}[x,y]$  and linear in  $x$ . Denote the subfield of forms as  $F_{\mathbb{Q}}$ . a) How many forms  $f$  in  $S$  there are in a basis over  $\mathbb{Q}$ ? Can we take one form or more than one? b) If we take a form to a basis, how many of those are linearly independent over  $\mathbb{Q}$ ? A: There are infinitely many such forms. You might be wondering how it's possible to have infinitely many different forms with the same rational coefficients. The answer is that you can have infinitely many different forms, all with coefficients that are transcendental over  $\mathbb{Q}$ . More precisely, let  $K$  be an extension of  $\mathbb{Q}$  whose degree over  $\mathbb{Q}$  is infinite, and let  $S$  be the set of all functions  $f: K \rightarrow K$  of the form  $f(x) = \sum_{i=1}^n a_i x^i$ , with  $a_i$  a sequence of elements of  $K$ . Now  $S$  is a subring of the ring of functions  $K \rightarrow K$ . Furthermore, by Dirichlet's theorem, every nonzero element
