Since the first characterization of induced pluripotent stem cells (iPSCs) by Yamanaka and Takahashi, many groups have performed similar experiments for the cardiac differentiation of iPSCs. The differentiation of iPSCs using small molecules and serum-free media containing growth factors is an efficient and simple method. However, the differentiation efficiency is low. Here, we describe a method for the efficient differentiation of iPSCs into cardiomyocytes through the Wnt signaling pathway. This protocol includes a few simple steps and can be finished within 1 month.Q: How to return only first element of array? I need to return a document using the MongoDB database and because I need only one record I want to get the first element of the array with orderId. If I use this query: db.collection.find({"orders" : {$exists:true}}, {"orderId" : 1}) I get the first record. But in this way I get the result of the query and not only one element. With this query I get only one element: db.collection.find({"orders" : {$exists:true}}, {"orderId" : {$first:1}}) How to get only one element with the db.collection.find query? Listeria monocytogenes is a Gram-positive facultative intracellular bacterial pathogen that is readily phagocytosed by macrophages. This bacterium typically causes listeriosis in the vegetative host, while in the absence of macrophages it causes systemic bacteraemia and infection of the reproductive tract of the pregnant female. L. monocytogenes infection does not cause overt destruction of the primary macrophage, although it does suppress innate immune responses. Here, we have investigated whether specific innate immune signalling pathways are involved in controlling L. monocytogenes infection in macrophages. RAW264.7 murine macrophages and human primary macrophages were exposed to increasing doses of either wild type L. monocytogenes (Lm) or a L. monocytogenes strain deficient in phosphatidylinositol 3 kinase (PI3K) or TPL2, two important components of the TPL2-TRAF6 signalling pathway. While PI3K was necessary for the PI3K-dependent intracellular control of L. monocytogenes, TPL2 was not. Thus, our findings demonstrate for the first time an important role for the TPL2 pathway in the control of a mammalian intracellular bacterial pathogen and suggest that the discovery of TPL2-TRAF6 acting in this way may represent one strategy for the development of new ways to control
