.Q: restrict checkbox list to be blank or not Good morning, I have this and that I have its ID. My question is how can I restrict users to not empty the at all. area_t This will be checked or unchecked depending on the ID of the user who has submitted. A: In the HTML: If you want to be able to both not show and set a value, you can do that in the JS as well. Then, add that value to the HTML tag as this: When you're ready to set a value, do something like this: document.getElementById('checkbox').value = document.getElementById('checkbox_value').value; If you want to check if they have selected a value, add an else to the if statements: if (document.getElementById('checkbox').value == "selected") { //Do something here } else { //Do something else here } Q: Getting Object at Specific position inside Array How to take the object(is this available in JavaScript) at specific position inside array using js? var array = ['a1','a2','a3','a4','a5']; I want to access the object at specific position inside array, how? A: You can use IndexOf: var array = ['a1','a2','a3','a4','a5']; console.log(array[3]); // Outputs a4 If the object is always at the end of the array, you can use lastIndexOf: var array = ['a1','a2','a3','a4','a5']; console.log(array[array.length-1]); //
